The University of North Dakota does not tolerate harassment. If you feel that you have been harassed, please report the incident to one of the following: If you are a student, contact the Dean of Students Office. If you are a graduate student and the harassment deals with academic issues, graduate assistantships, awards, and scholarships, contact the Graduate School. If you work within the academic arena, contact the Office of the Dean. If you are a medical student or resident, contact the Associate Dean of Students of the School of Medicine and Health Sciences. If you are a law student, contact the Office of the Dean of the School of Law. If the incident occurred in housing, contact the Housing Office. Also, the Affirmative Action Office is always available to help. If University officials receive a report of harassment, the University will promptly investigate the matter and take disciplinary actions, when appropriate, in accordance with the University's procedures-as detailed in the full harassment policy-for reporting incidents of possible harassment observed or which come to their attention. Retaliation in any form against any person who reports harassment, brings a complaint charging harassment, or participates in the harassment complaint process, is strictly prohibited. A provision identifying the range of penalties that may be considered when the University determines an individual engaged in harassment is included in the full harassment policy. The full harassment policy and grievance procedure may be found at: <http://www.und.edu/dept/aa0/Pol.htm> or in the University's Code of Student Life at: www.und.edu/dept/csl.
