MOSS, NORWAY NATIVE RECEIVES STATE AWARD FOR FEATURE REPORTING

Bøe interns with award-winning television show

GRAND FORKS, N.D. — Moss, Norway native Marie Bøe, has recently completed her fifth semester interning with the award-winning television show, Studio One. The television show is produced on the University of North Dakota campus by staff and students. It is played across the Midwest and into southern Manitoba, Canada with a potential audience of 4.5 million. Bøe has held a feature reporter position for four of those semesters. She also has been a graphics operator, graphics designer, and camera operator with the program. Bøe received third place in the North Dakota Professional Communicators contest for her feature reporting skills in a story she covered about an outdoor soup-cooking competition. The NDPC is an organization which evaluates communications work from colleges across the state of North Dakota. Bøe also has received the Recognition of Excellence Award from Studio One for significant contributions and dedication to the show. She says one of the things she enjoys most is the teamwork at Studio One. “I love knowing I have a place to go for anything,” adds Bøe.

Studio One is not the only place Bøe excels. She is involved in the National Society of Collegiate Scholars, Non-Profit Leadership Club, and is the Vice President of the Association of Norwegian Students Abroad. She has also won the Ad Altoria Scholarship and the NextGen Scholarship.

Bøe is a senior majoring in Communications at UND. After she graduates this May, Bøe plans to work with a non-profit or a television studio. “I want to work with people,” Bøe explains. She says her experience at Studio One has taught her about professionalism and prepared her for a career after college.
